

AFHC Awards for Healthy Cities 2007: Awardees

Award for innovation in monitoring and evaluation of Healthy Cities
Awardees	Description
City of Suzhou, China	Evaluation of Healthy Gardens: creation of standards and their application in a “settings” project.
Jinju City, Republic of Korea	Process of monitoring and evaluation of Healthy Cities initiatives of Jin-ju City.
Marikina City, Philippines	Evaluation and monitoring as a process of the City’s annual planning.
Tainan Healthy City Association	Evaluation of Healthy City Tainan 2003-2006: A systematic evaluation using indicators.
Award for innovation in effective media involvement for Healthy Cities
Awardees	Description
Gangnam District, Seoul, Republic of Korea	Telemedicine to improve health care access for the marginalized in communities.
Jinju City, Republic of Korea	A social marketing approach to encourage active living by involving various stakeholders
Seoul Metropolitan Government, Republic of Korea	Working with media to reduce injuries among children

Award for innovation in public and private partnership for Healthy Cities

Awardees	Description
Changshu City, Jiangsu Province, China	Advanced multilateral cooperation to optimize fitness services.
City of Suzhou, China	A charity project with “High Morality” to secure health care for patients with uremia.
Zhangjiagang City, China	Care for cataract patients to “brighten their eyes and souls with love” with the aim a achieving a “cataract-free city”.
Ichikawa City, Japan	An environment ordinance to promote partnership of citizens, businesses and municipal government.
Owariasahi City, Japan	City development of the residents, by the residents, for the residents: land readjustment associations:
Gangnam District, Seoul, Republic of Korea	Building a sports complex through a build-transfer-lease (BTL) partnership scheme.
Geumsan County, Republic of Korea	A local business association which supports a healthy school in a projet called “Let’s go together!”
Seongbuk District, Seoul, Republic of Korea	A health monitoring and evaluation system for the needy using a “ubiquitous-healthcare” system.
Las Piñas, Philippines	Partnerships with non-profit corporations for the delivery of better nutrition.
Marikina City, Philippines	Partnerships with various local and international stakeholders in promotion of a Healthy City.
Daan Health Promotion Association	Sponsorship from the private sector for a Healthy City.

